

I think the law in Indiana is stupid, it hurts jobs and businessess and it seems to me if people can't control their phone, they shoulhn't have one. Telemarketers are people with jobs -- it seems Hoosiers as well as others should learn how to deal with calls they don't want -- period. It is easy, be polite, and say no. Perhaps the attorney general of Indiana could spend more time on other important things, such as changing some of the stupid laws we have.
